THE AUDITORIUM.

A bill of both quantity and quality has been booked for the first half of next week by the management of the Auditorium and it promises to be one of wide variety and interest to all.

Commodore Tom, the educated pony, in music, comedy and tricks, will be on hand to amuse the children and make the grown people wonder at his wonderful understanding and clever stunts.

In a Hammett Built for Two is a new and interesting play which will be introduced by Goodhue and Burgess on Monday's bill and should be well appreciated. The short play is new and up to date in every detail and is presented by two clever performers.

Leo St. Elmo, "that German Musical Genius," as he is known, from the fact that he appears in the character of a German, is capable of playing almost any musical instrument. He introduces in his specialty several instruments which will be new to the audience at this theater, among them a set of silver bamboo chimes. Mr. St. Elmo also introduces the clown of all musical instruments, the bassoon, in a deliciously comic and humorous way that beautiful base solo, "Alone in the Deep."

Coming from the wedding is the tale of the young heroine who is presented by two very clever comedians, Andrews and Schaeffer, who promise to make a strong impression. Romance and Blon Illus will head the list of pictures.

POLITICIAN.

The Politicians will enter upon their twentieth week Monday afternoon, a record that is the most surprising thing in the history of the theater. It is a record made possible only by the clever and consistent work of the stock company and the class of plays presented, together with the thorough manner in which they have been produced. For their twentieth week the company will offer one of the most interesting and unusual plays, a play that Nat C. Goodwin starred in for several seasons. It is a play that depends to a great extent on its peculiar character, the story introducing and revolving around types of the locality and period represented by the play. The background is simple and the story humorous and homey, dealing with life as the author found it at the time. There is nothing sentimental or untrue about it, yet it moves definitely through to a logical and natural climax, bringing out the homey and rustic characters. There are comedy rustic characters that provide laughter, one Dave, a boy who is looking for a "steady job," yet is so busy working that he has no time to hunt for one. On Monday afternoon the company will be given to all the media attending. This souvenir is one that should be in every home, a needle case with a full assortment of the best needles. For the following week the screaming force, What Happened to Jones, will be presented by the company.

BREED THEATER.

One of the interesting western pictures at the Breed today is entitled "The Romance of Brad O' Ranch," and is a breezy story of a cowboy who has captured the heart of the owner's daughter, much to the chagrin of the older employee who is immediately sent to cause his dismissal. They aim to convey to the ranch owner that he is a horse thief and almost succeed in having him lynched, when a neighbor (who has been rendered unconscious by a blow from the real villain, who is caught in the act of removing the horse from the stable) arrives upon the scene and brings with him the daughter to verify his statements, and the happy pair united, and the guilty partner left off with their heads in a noose.

The New Comedy, "The Great Escape," the greatest comedy of the season, makes the popular picture house ring with peals of laughter, the convulsing characters, both by face and action, assisting in its great success.

Miss Lawrence sings, "I'm Looking for a New Young Fellow," and "This is Over Mars," two big picture-song hits.

CHILDREN'S GLASSES.

Who Will Provide Them for Public School Pupils in Bridgeport?

Whether it is the duty of the board of health, the board of education, or the board of charities to provide eye glasses for the children of poor parents in the Bridgeport schools, lack of these glasses being credited with being the cause of their being backward in their studies, proved the real discussion topic at last week's session of the board of health. The question came up before the board of education Monday night and was not decided. Neither did the board of health settle it, although discussing it for nearly an hour.

The question was brought to the forum when Frederick W. Osborn reported that a number of the children of the poor had been found to be backward in their studies, and that the board of health had been asked to provide eye glasses for them.

Mr. Osborn said that he had been asked to provide eye glasses for the children of the poor, and that he had been asked to provide eye glasses for the children of the poor, and that he had been asked to provide eye glasses for the children of the poor.

COUNTY TAX

For New Haven County Is to Be One-Half Mill Levied Semi-Annually.

The city officials of Derby were somewhat shocked the other afternoon, when they received from John Currier Gallagher, clerk of the superior court of New Haven county, notice that he had drawn an order upon the town of Derby for the first installment of the county tax for this year, to be paid on the 1st of May.

In this notice it was stated that the senators and representatives of the county, who had voted to levy a tax of one-half mill for each of the years 1911 and 1912, this year to be paid on the 1st of May, and payable in two installments, one on the 1st of May and the other on the 1st of November.

The press reports of the meeting made it clear that the one-half mill tax was to cover both years, or in other words, that the annual tax would be one-half mill. Instead, it is to be one mill, and instead of semi-annual payments, it is to be paid in one installment of half a mill.
